STORY

With 15 years of experience at renowned architectural firms—Henry Smith-Miller and Lauri Hawkinson Architects, E.L. Barnes and John M.Y. Lee, PC, and The Hillier Group—I honed my craft, immersing myself in diverse architectural disciplines and refining my skills. In 1998, I launched my own firm, driven by a passion for craftsmanship, collaboration, and design excellence. Initially focused on high-end residential projects, my work emphasized tailored, detail-oriented designs that brought clients' visions to life. However, following 2008, I transitioned to hospitality projects, specializing in breweries, distilleries, and restaurants. This shift reconnected me with my foundational training and ignited a passion for the synergy within the food and beverage industry. I value the community-oriented spirit of hospitality and the opportunity to create spaces that serve and inspire others. My focus remains on giving back to the community and positively impacting the built environment, combining timeless design principles with a commitment to sustainability and thoughtful execution.
